Ganfer & Shore Strengthens Firm with New Heavy Hitting Partners

The Manhattan Boutique is Joined by Former Attorneys at Flemming Zulack Williamson Zauderer LLP

New York, NY June 22nd, 2018 Ganfer & Shore, LLP, one of New York City's most prominent boutique law firms, is taking on four former attorneys from Flemming Zulack Williamson Zauderer LLP, led by prominent new name partner Mark C. Zauderer.

The firm will officially be renamed as Ganfer Shore Leeds & Zauderer LLP on July 1st.

"This change further shows the strength and ability of our team. While our firm has the experience and knowledge of Big Law, we work for clients with a far more personal touch," says managing partner Steven Shore.

Mark C. Zauderer and Craig S. Kesch will be joining GSLZ as partners. Both are longtime Manhattan attorneys, widely known as two of the prominent litigators in the city.

In addition, Messrs. Zauderer and Kesch are joined by their colleagues, of-counsel Jason T. Cohen, and senior associate Grant Shehigian.

Zauderer, with more than four decades of experience litigating some of the nation's most high-profile cases, will bring an enhanced name recognition to the firm.

"I couldn't be happier with the move," says Mark C. Zauderer. "Ganfer Shore Leeds & Zauderer is everything a New York City law firm should be – smart, savvy and sophisticated."

They join existing firm litigators, including managing partner Steven J. Shore and partners Mark A. Berman, Ira B. Matetsky, Justin R. Bonanno and William D. McCracken.

GSLZ also has an extensive real estate transactional practice, which is being recognized by the addition of Matthew Leeds to the firm name.

The firm's litigation team of 15 members is considered by peers and clients to be one of the best in the New York and national litigation markets.

Since 1979, the firm has been a significant force in business litigation and real estate law in New York City. With the skill and sophistication of a large law firm and the responsiveness and efficiency of a small firm, they approach every matter, every case, every transaction with fresh eyes and an innovative mindset. By consistently delivering outstanding service and maintaining laser focus on our clients' goals, they have earned the trust of Fortune 500 companies, leading law firms, and major real estate investors.
